Transport Changes Bring on Changes in Taxes, Too

Out in California a town named Commerce—about the size of Hope—is conducting an experiment which illustrates the vast change in public services and taxation within your editor's lifetime.

Commerce is in the city bus business—for free. The city owns five buses and patrons pay no fare.

Electric trolleys gave up the ghost years ago. Commercial bus lines took their place, but many of them found their fare collections didn't cover expenses and went out of business.

Formerly the electric trolley lines, and the bus companies that followed them, paid the city government an annual franchise fee to operate over city streets. But that revenue has been gone for years and in its place is a thundering city expense—either a subsidy to the bus companies to keep rolling, or a municipal takeover.

There are conflicting views on the California experiment. Some say it's a socialistic subsidy. But a Pennsylvania legislator likes the idea. He says: "Mass transit should be as public as the police force, the school system, or the fire department."

That may well be, but how will the city cover the bus expense tax-wise? Certainly it doesn't belong on the shoulders of property owners. A just tax law might raise money by charging a municipal license fee for privately-owned motor cars and the fuel they use—but the possibility of "selling" motorists on this idea is pretty slim.

As I have said before, if you're going to subsidize dying transportation systems then you ought to have pensioned off the old-time canal men when the railroads put canals out of business.

Snow Hits Arkansas

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The snow which accumulated around Arkansas Wednesday night and this morning is likely to be on the ground for awhile—until Friday at least.

The National Weather Bureau says the snow will have stopped late this afternoon in all areas of the state. However, they said a cold front today will move into the state.

The weather bureau says that the skies will be clear Friday and there will be a slight warming trend. The highs Friday will be in the 30s.

The highs around the state Wednesday ranged from 37 at Fort Smith to 54 at El Dorado.

Overnight lows were Fayetteville, 12; Harrison, 13; Jonesboro, 27; Pine Bluff, 27; Texarkana, 23; El Dorado, 26; Memphis, 32; Little Rock, 25 and Fort Smith 18.

Precipitation recorded during the 24-hour period ending at 6 o'clock this morning was: .13 of an inch of precipitation at Fayetteville and two inches of snow on the ground; .10 at Harrison and one inch of snow; .03 at Jonesboro; a trace at Pine Bluff; .09 at Memphis; a trace at Little Rock and .17 at Fort Smith.

Congress Ignores Pressure to End Costly Dock Strike

By JOHN LENGEL

Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Despite presidential pressure, the Democratic-controlled Congress seems unlikely to produce legislation ending the West Coast dock strike until next week.

The Senate and House are still at the hearing stage on the dock-strike bill President Nixon sent to Capitol Hill 12 days ago. He asked for action within a week.

In another message Wednesday, Nixon said the 117-day walkout has cost the nation $600 million in exports and "continues to impose a cruel and intolerable burden upon the American people."

Transportation Secretary John Volpe and Agriculture Secretary Earl L. Butz were to testify today before the Senate Labor Committee, which is considering the legislation.

Despite Nixon's plea for fast action, Democrats publicly place their faith in continued bargaining between shippers and striking dock workers.

"The parties are meeting," said Labor Committee Chairman Harrison A. Williams Jr., D-N.J. "I do not quite share the feeling of impossibility of settlement."

Look Out! IRS Has Simple Instructions

By JULES LOH

AP Newsfeatures Writer
OLD TAPPAN, N.J. (AP) — The news from Washington was especially welcome.

The Commissioner of the Internal Revenue Service, Johnnie M. Walters, on Wednesday announced: "The instructions and the illustrated examples in the tax booklet make filling out a return simple."

Many years ago I learned to take that annual declaration with a grain of aspirin. Then he added:

"Your daughter in the fifth grade can fill it out this year."

No kidding? Behold, I am the parent of a certified, $675 deductible daughter who is in, not the fifth, but the seventh grade. A graduate tax expert!

"Maureen," I said, dragging her away from the TV and unplugging the record player, "put down your guitar and come here. It is time you looked seriously at life's realities."

"Mom already told me about all that," she said.

"No, no dear. I just, ha ha, want you to read this simple booklet and give your old dad a hand at completing this form."

She turned to the section titled "filing status" and beamed. "It says here," she said, "that a married individual may be considered to be unmarried if: ... Well," she grinned devilishly, "I know all about that. There's a couple on this soap opera I watch ..."

nists.

The Viet Cong also told the Paris peace talks that the United States should set a "specific terminal date" for withdrawal of all its "troops, advisers, military personnel, weapons and war materials" from South Vietnam.

"Never mind. I want you to read this section under capital assets. The adjusted basis for determining gain from the sale is an amount which is in the same ratio to the adjusted basis as the amount realized is to the fair market value of the property. Are you with me?"

"Sure, dad. Anyhow, this couple, well this is her second husband and she's his third wife and even though they got married they never ..."

"I'm concerned about uncle Charley," I interrupted. "He can't see well enough to find the employment agency but it says here, on page 5, that I can't claim him as a dependent unless 'central visual acuity did not exceed 20-200 in the better eye with correcting lenses, or (b) that the widest diameter of the visual field subtends an angle no greater than 20 degrees. How great an angle do you suppose Charley's visual field subtends?"

"I was just going to tell you, dad. This couple was in an auto accident—not him and his wife, but him and his secretary, who is his wife's stepdaughter—and he became not only partially blind and couldn't see but he also couldn't ..."

"Forget it. Do you know how to figure 19 per cent of $2,594?"

"... couldn't figure out his income tax. Do you know what he did? He asked his daughter—actually not his daughter, although he thinks it's his daughter ..."

"Nguyen Van Thieu must resign immediately," the Viet Cong declared, "the Saigon administration must end its war-like policy, disband at once its machine of oppression and constraint against the people, stop its 'pacification' policy, disband the concentration camps, set free those persons arrested on political grounds and guarantee to the people the democratic liberties as provided for by the 1964 Geneva Agreement on Vietnam."

Once that was accomplished, the statement continued, the Viet Cong's Provisional Revolutionary Government would negotiate with the Saigon government for formation of a coalition regime that would hold elections for a constitutional assembly.

The demands were made in what the Viet Cong called an elaboration of their seven-point peace plan presented last July 1. The new Viet Cong statement had been outlined in a broadcast by the Viet Cong's Liberation Radio heard in Saigon on Wednesday and reported in detail then.

The only new demand is that Thieu resign immediately. Previously the Viet Cong called for the United States to withdraw its support from the South Vietnamese president.

The Saigon sources, quoting diplomats in Laos, said Thieu plans to stop in Peking on Feb. 20 on his way back to Paris from Hanoi. Nixon is scheduled to arrive Feb. 21, accompanied by Kissinger.

Nguyen Van Tien, the deputy leader of the Viet Cong delegation, told the 14th session of the Paris talks today that the Viet Cong "does not accept" President Nixon's eight-point peace proposal, which Kissinger presented to Thieu last Oct. 11 and which Nixon made public last week. It was the clearest statement yet of the Communist attitude toward Nixon's plan.

Compromise Welfare Reform Plan

By JOE HALL

Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Nixon administration and Sen. Abraham A. Ribicoff have worked out a compromise on welfare reform which may improve prospects for the President's family-assistance plan.

Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare Elliot L. Richardson was to disclose details of the compromise at a news conference today.

However, the White House said Wednesday that the administration is willing to go along with an advance test of a key feature of the President's proposal.

Ribicoff had demanded a pilot effort last Friday in announcing he no longer could support the proposal without such a test.

The key point is whether the bill also will contain a date to put the plan into effect once the experiment is completed.

Ribicoff, a Connecticut Democrat, said last Friday he would not support such a trigger date.

But a high administration source said after Wednesday's negotiations with the senator that the compromise measure would provide that the new welfare plan take effect once the test is conducted.

It was understood the compromise also would contain a provision giving Congress a right to veto the plan if it regarded the test as unsuccessful.

Ribicoff declined to discuss details of the compromise in advance of Richardson's press conference.

But he told a reporter he had made a concession, indicating he might have agreed to go along with a trigger date.

Ribicoff, a former HEW secretary, has been regarded as the principal hope of getting welfare legislation through the Senate.

He is chief spokesman for a coalition of 14 governors, 25 senators, hundreds of mayors and county officials, and dozens of such organizations as the AFL-CIO. The coalition announced last October it supports a liberalized version of the President's plan.

The most-important elements in the plan are a guaranteed minimum annual income, which Nixon set at $2,400 for a family of four, and aid for the first time for the working poor.

The Ribicoff substitute called for an initial $3,000 guaranteed income, and $4,000 after three years.

Ribicoff said last Friday that the working-poor feature should be tried on an experimental basis before it is put into effect nationally.

Professor to Direct Forum

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Dr. Otto Zinke, a physics professor at the University of Arkansas, was appointed Wednesday by Gov. Dale Bumpers as chairman of the governor's Arkansas Energy Forum.

Bumpers authorized the forum last December. It is to be composed of representatives of utilities, producers, consumers, energy distributors, and conservationists, among others.

The forum was authorized by Bumpers to develop recommendations for policies and possible legislation to conserve existing sources of energy and develop new ones.

Fighting in Dacca

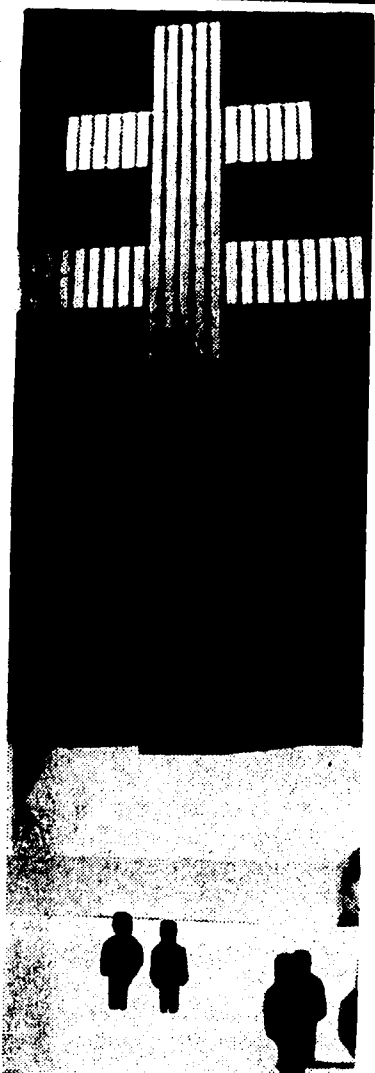

By DENNIS NEEDLE

DACCA (AP) — Loud explosions echoed from Dacca's Bahari sector of Mirpur today as the government sent in former Bangali guerrilla fighters to reinforce the regular Bangladesh troops.

Lt. Col. Khalid Mosharra said the explosions were "old mines being detonated" and that the fighting reported earlier in the week between Bangladesh soldiers and Pakistani troops holding out was ended. But he said the search for arms and collaborators in the district was continuing.

Casualties Continue at 5 Average

SAIGON (AP) — The U.S. Command reported today that 22 Americans were killed and 22 were wounded in Indochina fighting last week.

The death toll was close to the average for the past three months, an it was the 17th consecutive week of less than 10 combat deaths.

The weekly casualty summary also said seven Americans died of causes not connected with enemy action.

Casualty figures for the previous week were two killed and 30 wounded in action and four deaths from nonhostile causes.

The South Vietnamese command said 292 of its troops were killed last week and 661 were wounded, both less than the totals for the previous week.

Enemy losses also dropped slightly, from 978 in the previous week to 929 last week, South Vietnamese military headquarters said.

The allied commands now have reported these total casualties for the war:

American—45,644 killed in action, 302,571 wounded, 10,058 dead from nonhostile causes.

South Vietnamese—139,094 killed, 301,213 wounded.

North Vietnamese and Viet Cong—793,416 killed.

Youth Charged With Rape

JONESBORO, Ark. (AP) — Michael E. Allen, 19, of Walnut Ridge was charged Wednesday with raping two 14-year-old Jonesboro girls last Thursday.

Sheriff Floyd Johnson of Craighead County said another man probably would be charged today.

and its outskirts. The International Red Cross, which attempted to take in medical supplies, was also refused permission to enter.

Mirpur, the home of 250,000 members of the country's minority Bihari community, was under curfew for the sixth straight day.

The army units were moving in heavy vehicles, mounted with recoilless rifles, artillery and mortars. Two truckloads of the Mukti Bahini—guerrillas who fought against the Pakistani army—joined the regular troops.

Embassy Burned, Irish Gangs Roam

DUBLIN (AP) — Gangs of youths milled through Dublin all night, taunting police and singing in celebration of burning of the British Embassy.

The British ambassador, Sir John Peck, returned from London and remarked coolly, "I suppose we'll just have to compromise." He said he planned to see the government as soon as possible to discuss compensation for the four-story Georgian building near the center of the Irish capital.

A mob estimated at 30,000 burned out the Embassy Wednesday in retaliation for the killing last Sunday of 13 civilians in a clash with British troops in Londonderry, Northern Ireland's second largest city.

The outnumbered police made no attempt to restrain the mob as it hurled salvos of gasoline bombs and burned symbolic coffins straddled by effigies of British Prime Minister Edward Heath.

After seeing the Embassy gutted, one group moved on to storm the nearby British Passport Office. But there the police broke up the attack with a baton charge.

A firebomb attack had been made on the Embassy Tuesday, and the 30 members of the staff had evacuated the building and removed all secret and valuable documents before the attack Wednesday.

The Irish government apologized, accepted responsibility for the damage and offered to pay full compensation.

In Northern Ireland, officials called on the Civil Rights Association to cancel a parade scheduled Sunday in Newry and avert the possibility of a repetition of the bloodshed last Sunday. But a member of the association told newsmen, "Next Sunday's march is definitely and irrevocably on," in defiance of a ban on all such demonstrations. The government warned that British troops would break up the march.

One man was killed Wednesday night and five others were seriously injured when a bomb blew up a tavern in Stewartstown, 30 miles west of Belfast. Police said the bomb was placed in front of the saloon, and the people inside were given no warning to get out. A spokesman blamed the blast on the Irish Republican Army, fighting a guerrilla war to oust the British and reunite the province with the republic.

The man was the 233rd person killed in the communal strife that has gripped Ulster since August 1969.

British troops came under sniper fire and an attack by nail bombs in Belfast after midnight. A military spokesman said the soldiers returned the fire "and a gunman was seen to fall."

The British Defense Ministry touched off new Catholic protests with the announcement that a second battalion of paratroopers will be assigned to Northern Ireland later this month. It was the 1st Battalion of the Parachute Regiment that did the shooting in Londonderry last Sunday.

GOPs Denounce Muskie's Attack

By WALTER R. MEARS

AP Political Writer

Led by the White House, five Republicans have joined in denouncing Sen. Edmund S. Muskie for a campaign speech dismissing President Nixon's Indochina peace terms as proven failures.

And Nixon's campaign organization, the Committee for Re-Election of the President, said its only interpretation of Muskie's "change of heart is that he is appealing blatantly for votes from the left wing of his party."

Four Republican senators and House GOP Leader Gerald R. Ford issued statements accusing the Democratic presidential candidate of trying to improve his political status at the expense of Nixon's efforts to end the war.

"This is the worst kind of gutter politics," said Sen. William E. Brock III of Tennessee.

White House press secretary Ronald L. Ziegler said Muskie's remarks "were not worthy of comment," then called it regrettable and unfortunate that some public figures chose to reject the Nixon terms "before Hanoi has."

"Now is not the time for partisanship to be put above the cause of peace," said Ziegler.

The Republican counterattack drew more attention than the original speech, in which Muskie told 150 churchwomen Wednesday that the United States should set a date for total military withdrawal from Indochina, with release of U.S. prisoners and safety of the troops the only condition.

He said Nixon "did not offer to exchange our presence in Vietnam for the freedom of our prisoners. Instead, he laid down additional conditions, a general settlement of all outstanding issues, or a cease-fire in all of Indochina."

Brock said he found it incredible that Muskie, whom he called an instrument of war policy during the Johnson administration, "would have the nerve to stand before the American people and denounce the one President who has been able to get us out of the Vietnam quagmire ..."

Sen. J. Glenn Beall Jr. of Maryland said: "The American people's memory is good enough to remember Sen. Muskie's role in our tragic involvement in the war in Southeast Asia."

Who Stashed $150,000?

By PEGGY SIMPSON

Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Who stashed $150,000 in U.S. $50 bills inside a secluded rocky cave in South Vietnam?

That's the central factor in a case being argued before the U.S. Court of Claims.

Donald W. Morrison, 24, a former Army sergeant who found the money while on patrol in 1968, says he should get the money, with interest.

Morrison, who says he now makes $5,000 a year as a highway worker in Georgia, contends no one knows who hid the money, and that it constitutes a "treasure" since the rightful owner can't be located.

The government argues that the area was heavily occupied by Viet Cong and North Vietnamese, that the money probably belonged to the enemy and that Morrison as a result recovered stolen U.S. property on behalf of his government.

Morrison testified Wednesday that he and other soldiers were exploring caves on July 31, 1968, when they found several letters with oriental writing on them, decayed clothing and a tin can of Vietnamese money worth about $10,000.

He said the other soldiers had left the cave when he flashed his light up the wall and spotted another tin, a U.S. Army ammunition container manufactured in his home town of Monroeville, Ga.

Emergency Loans Available

WASHINGTON (AP) — Twenty-five Arkansas counties declared disaster areas in Arkansas last week were being designated areas where the Farmers Home Administration may make emergency loans to eligible farmers through June 30, according to Secretary of Agriculture Earl Butz.

In addition to the 25 eligible counties, farmers affected in adjoining counties also can apply, according to the office of Rep. John Paul Schmidt, R-Ark.

The 25 counties are Baxter, Boone, Carroll, Conway, Crawford, Franklin, Fulton, Hempstead, Howard, Izard, Johnson, Little River, Logan, Madison, Marion, Miller, Montgomery, Newtown, Perry, Polk, Scott, Sebastian, Sevier, Stone and Yell.

The counties were declared a disaster area because of flooding during the month of December.

Bombers Batter Supply Routes

By GEORGE ESPER
Associated Press Writer
SAIGON (AP) — U.S. and South Vietnamese warplanes battered North Vietnamese supply routes through eastern Laos today, and the South Vietnamese command reported its bombers destroyed four tanks and two other armored vehicles in the central highlands.

A communique said waves of A37 jet bombers attacked the armored column Wednesday afternoon in the border region where officials say the North Vietnamese are massing for an offensive in the highlands.

The South Vietnamese air force issued a separate communique claiming six Soviet PT76 light tanks and four trucks were destroyed and 15 enemy troops were killed. It was the second case of a discrepancy in official South Vietnamese reports on tanks being knocked out in the central highlands. The same thing happened a week ago, and informed sources said such conflicts may be the result of inter-service jealousies.

In the air campaign to delay the North Vietnamese offensive, about 30 U.S. B52 bombers dropped between 700 and 900 tons of bombs on enemy positions, nearly all of them in Laos and Cambodia.

There are some estimates that as many as 15,000 North Vietnamese troops are already in the border region on the western side of the central highlands. But American observation pilots told Associated Press newsman Holger Jensen in Pleiku that from what they've seen, that estimate is too high.

No major ground fighting was reported in the highlands. Elsewhere across South Vietnam, light and scattered fighting was reported.

The U.S. Command said five Americans were wounded and one armored personnel carrier was destroyed during reconnaissance patrols 27 miles northeast and 40 miles east of Saigon. Enemy losses were not known.

South Vietnamese militiamen reported killing 15 of the enemy in a fight 23 miles northwest of Saigon. One militiaman was killed and one wounded.

All South Vietnamese military personnel in the 3rd Military Region around Saigon were ordered on a heightened state of readiness beginning Friday in anticipation of increased enemy attacks prior to the Tet celebration of the lunar new year beginning Feb. 15.

In Laos, Maj. Gen. Vang Pao predicted a major North Vietnamese attack against his Long Cheng base soon after Tet. He estimated that the North Vietnamese have 6,700 men targeted against the base 78 miles northeast of Vientiane.

Agrees on Debt Ceiling Less Than Nixon Asked

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House Ways and Means Committee agreed today on a debt ceiling increase of $20 billion—$30 billion less than President Nixon asked—and a requirement that the administration come back before Congress for borrowing authority before June 30.

Handlers of the bill are seeking House action next week. The Treasury has said the debt will be at or near the ceiling by March 1.

Nixon had asked that the present limit on Treasury borrowing, $430 billion, be increased to $480 billion.

Secretary of the Treasury John B. Connally, told the committee this figure would take care of borrowing requirements until February 1973, despite impending budget deficits of $38.8 billion for the current fiscal year and $25.5 billion for the next year.

But from the start, it was evident the Democratic-controlled committee was determined to bring the administration back for another fiscal accounting before next November's presidential election.

Members said proposals for a debt ceiling higher than $450 billion never were seriously considered and the final action was unanimous. The bill approved by the committee specifies that the debt ceiling is to expire June 30, making it certain that another extension must be sought by then.

In any case, Treasury projections were that the debt would approach the $450 billion mark about that time.

Farmers Signing for U.S. Feed, Grain Programs

By DON KENDALL
AP Farm Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Farmers across the nation began signing up today for the government's 1972 programs for feed grain, wheat and cotton, which include new options for reducing corn and sorghum grain output this year.

Feed-grain farmers, under a plan announced Wednesday by the Agriculture Department, can voluntarily choose to set aside an additional 10 per cent of their feed base acreage and qualify for high payments.

Other features of the 1972 feed program, as announced last October, are still in effect. Among those is a requirement that participating farmers must set aside 25 per cent of their feed base acres to qualify for benefits.

Another part of the October program permits farmers to take more feed acres from production—in addition to the 25 per cent requirement—up to 10 per cent of their base.

The plan announced Wednesday adds a further choice. If farmers wish, they can ignore the second step or option in the October plan and set aside 10 per cent of their feed base and get larger payments for doing so. That payment will be at the rate of 80 cents a bushel of corn normally produced on the idled land, compared with a 52-cent rate under the October option.

The big qualifier, however, is that to get the high-rate farmers must agree to keep corn plantings on their remaining land below what they raised in 1971.

For each additional acre set aside under the new option, which will draw the larger payments, farmers must reduce corn plantings this year by two acres from 1971.

Under the October plan, still available to farmers if they choose, a grower can plant all the corn he wants on remaining land after meeting basic set-aside requirements.

In other words, the new option makes available an acreage control program this year for corn and sorghum. Barley is not included in the new option but is in the October plan.

Theoretically, if a farmer has a 400-acre feed base, his basic 25 per cent set-aside requirement in 1972 will be 100 acres.

Then, by choosing the new option, he can set aside another 10 per cent or 40 acres, but he must reduce corn plantings from 1971 on the remainder. Assume that last year the farmer planted 500 acres to corn.

Weather Slams Texas

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Subfreezing weather caused Texans to shiver in areas as far south as the state's middle and upper coast this morning, and the mercury plunged close to zero at some points in the Panhandle and the far west.

A high pressure center over Southwest Texas sent arctic air circulating over all sections, and fierce north winds heightened the discomfort over the eastern half of the Lone Star State.

Temperatures near dawn tumbled to 1 degree above zero at Marfa in the West Texas mountains, 5 at Dalhart, 6 at Lubbock, 7 at Amarillo and 8 at Alpine, another mountain spot.

Skies cleared throughout the state except for the extreme east and extreme south edges of Texas as the severe cold spread into all sections.

Among the few spots with overnight temperatures above the 30s were Brownsville with 42 degrees and McAllen with 43, both near the south tip of the Lower Rio Grande Valley.

Readings elsewhere included Wink 11, Abilene 12, Midland 13, Wichita Falls 16, Dallas, Mineral Wells and San Angelo 19, El Paso, Fort Worth and Tyler 21, Texarkana 23, Longview, Lufkin and Waco 24, College Station 25, Austin 26, San Antonio 27, Beaumont-Port Arthur, Palacios, Beeville and

U.S. Plans to Help Bangladesh

By SPENCER DAVIS
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The Nixon administration is making contingency plans to help the United Nations feed or resettle 2.5 million people who want to leave Bangladesh, and millions waiting to return there.

Administration aides say U.S. government and private humanitarian aid to the Asian sub-continent has topped $250 million, most of it channeled through the United Nations.

India estimates another $122 million is necessary to pay the cost of returning three million to four million refugees from India to their homes in Bangladesh.

Congress is considering an administration request for additional funds for the continuing refugee and relief program, which the United Nations is now assessing.

President Nixon has requested $250 million for emergency relief in South Asia during the present year but the House of Representatives has appropriated only $175 million.

Administration aides testifying before the Senate subcommittee on refugees Tuesday said deliveries of U.S. supplies and food have continued since before the Indian-Pakistan war. Frank L. Kellogg, special assistant to the Secretary of State William P. Rogers for refugee and migration affairs, says there will be a question of additional refugee problems generated as the current political situation settles down in the sub-continent.

Kellogg estimates two million to 2.5 million non-Bengalis are still in Bangladesh. These people, foreigners hated by Bengali residents, have not yet been declared refugees. They include Muslims from Bihar in India and other minority groups.

There are 30,000 West Pakistanis stranded in Bangladesh, formerly East Pakistan. In addition, 400,000 Bengalis in West Pakistan want to return to Bangladesh.

In India, the latest figure is that more than six million of the estimated 10 million refugees from Bangladesh have crossed the border to re-establish themselves in their hometowns.

The United States has approved a U.N. request to make food and other supplies for refugees in India available for these persons inside Bangladesh.

Opposes AM&N Merger

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Representatives of several black organizations expressed opposition Wednesday to a scheduled merger of Arkansas AM&N College and the University of Arkansas.

By law, the merger is to take place July 11.

Spokesmen at the news conference included Dr. Jerry D. Jewell of Little Rock, state NAACP president; Andrew Finck of Little Rock, president of the Little Rock NAACP chapter; C. K. Yarbrough of Texarkana, head of the Independent Voters of Arkansas; the Rev. C. B. Knox Jr. of Little Rock, pastor of New Canaan Baptist Church; the Rev. J. F. Cooley of Little Rock and DeWitt Hill of Pine Bluff.

They contended that the merger would submerge the black identity of AM&N and amount to nothing more than a white takeover of the institution.

"The merger bill was accepted (originally) because the black people were under the impression that acceptance was the only position that would enable the college to get funds from the legislature to pay its bills and to operate on," Yarbrough said.

He said, however, that developments in the integration field and "the attitudes of white conservatives and racists" since the merger bill was approved in 1971 "have convinced the black people of Arkansas that the merger is not in the best interest of black people."

Wants Irving Story to Sell to Hughes

By HANNS NEUERBOURG
Associated Press Writer
VILLARS-SUR-OLLEON, Switzerland (AP) — The fugitive art dealer who is suing Clifford Irving for $55 million says he is trying to get Irving's "autobiography" of Howard R. Hughes to sell to the billionaire recluse.

"Hughes is willing to pay any amount to have the manuscript and burn it," Fernand Legros said in an interview Wednesday. "We will try to get it and then we will hear from Hughes what he is ready to pay."

Richard Hannah, a public relations spokesman for the Hughes interests, said Legros has contacted Hughes' attorneys but "Mr. Hughes has not offered nor is he willing to pay any such to get the Irving manuscript."

Legros, who claims Irving libeled him in his book "Fake," a 1969 best-seller about an art forger, is trying to get the Hughes manuscript by means of a writ of attachment he obtained in a New York court in connection with his suit. That means if Legros' lawyer can prove to a court that Irving has assets, they can be seized.

up," he said. "All I could see were $50 bills in three stacks."

Morrison said he told his platoon leader, Lt. Dan Dorsey II, that "we could split it up because I thought it was our money since we found it."

"He said we couldn't do that—we had to turn it in. So he took the money and gave it to the company commander."

Morrison never saw the money again.

Dorsey, now assistant manager of a Minneapolis clothing store, confirmed there was great excitement when the $150,000 was found and that some of the men wanted to split it up among themselves.

But he couldn't recall who had seen the money first or who had opened it. He said that at least six or seven of his men were in the cave at the time.

"I had a hard time trying to command the people," Dorsey said. "They were definitely excited about splitting up the money for their own personal use."

Morrison said after the hearing that he does not know where the money is now, but added: "I hope somebody knows where it is."

What if the court orders the Army to give him the money? "I really haven't worried about getting it. I never thought I would," he said.

Legros has also demanded that Irving's publisher, the McGraw-Hill Book Co., turn over the manuscript. But Ted Weber, a McGraw-Hill spokesman, said the manuscript belongs to the publisher, not Irving, and "I can tell you nobody's going to get the Hughes manuscript."

Legros said the warrant of attachment was also served on the Swiss Bank Corp. in New York Monday, seeking attachment of the $422,707 deposited by Mrs. Irving with the bank's Zurich office. That money is part of the $650,000 McGraw-Hill paid Irving for Hughes, and the Swiss government has impounded it on behalf of the publisher.

Several years ago an American collector filed a criminal suit charging that Legros sold him a number of Picassos, Modiglianis and other purported masterpieces that actually were fakes produced by an admitted art forger who uses the name Elmyr De Hory.

Although Legros denies ever having sold any of De Hory's work, French authorities issued an international warrant for Legros in 1968 and he went to Switzerland on a false British passport to escape arrest.

Irving meanwhile got to know De Hory on Ibiza, the Balearic island where the writer lives, and told of his career in his book "Fake," which McGraw-Hill published in 1969.

Fiat Heiress Seeks Divorce

VENICE, Italy (AP) — Princess Clara Agnelli, the Fiat automobile heiress, and Austrian Prince Tassilo Fuerstenberg have filed a divorce request for their Italian marriage.

The princess is the sister of Gianni Agnelli, head of the Fiat automobile empire, and mother of movie actress Ira Fuerstenberg.

Double Talk Is Way to Tell It Like It Ain't

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — There is no better way to kill a long winter than to spend the time polishing up your double talk.

Then, when spring finally comes, you'll emerge as the most interesting hypocrite in town. But if you let your double-talk vocabulary languish through lack of exercise, you'll be in trouble.

You'll inadvertently start saying in public what you really mean instead of what you want people to think you mean, and thereby blow your reputation as a conversationalist sky high. You'll become a social liability instead of a social asset. It makes people uncomfortable to hear the truth spoken out loud. The truth is to be written only in books. That's because it is easier and more legal to burn a book than it is to shut up a speaker. One requires only a match; the other, a fist.

Double talk is simply the truth turned inside out. You say one thing that is socially acceptable while thinking something else that is truer but socially unacceptable.

Here are a few typical examples of double talk. What the person said is in quotes, followed in each case by what he actually thought.

"That project you suggested is doing fine. We've got it in the final planning stage." — Gee, it's a lucky thing I bumped into this guy. I had forgotten all about his idea.

"Glad you'll be able to come, Jack. The party wouldn't be the same without you." — However, it would be more civilized.

"Nevertheless we wish to assure you that your patronage is gratefully appreciated and that you neglected this small matter only through an oversight." — Pay the bill now, Buster.

"Your face bears a haunted look these days, Wilberforce. Tell me what secret torture is eating at your heart?" — If I can just get this jerk talking about himself, I can close my eyes and take a nice long nap.

"I don't think anyone but a vegetable.

2-pound butternut squash
1 1/4 cups boiling water
1 teaspoon salt
1 to 3 tablespoons butter
1 teaspoon lemon juice
1/8 teaspoon nutmeg
Cut squash in half lengthwise; remove seeds and stringy portion. Pare; cut into 3/4-inch cubes — makes 4 to 6 cups. Cook rapidly, covered, with boiling water and salt just until tender — 8 to 10 minutes. Drain and dry by shaking squash in pan over low heat. Mash with remaining ingredients. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

Television and Radio Becomes Eagle Scout

NEW YORK (AP) — ABC's new "Comedy Hour" and its alternate program, "The Kopy Kats" on Wednesday night, seem to be nothing more than a continuation of NBC's old "Music Hall" series.

There is one difference, demonstrated by Alan King as he hosted an hour this week: ABC's versions are bolder, broader and less fettered.

King's first show was called, "If You Think Last Year Was Bad, Wait," and was a strange mix of the comedian's cynical and adroit wit combined with a number of half-hatched comedy sketches full of messy things, like throwing a table of health food out of an apartment window.

King was in top form. There also was a short and witty sketch in which King played a producer trying to sell Moses the idea of a musical show on his exploits on the basis of the hit status of "Jesus Christ Superstar."

This may get some complaint mail.

Anne Meara worked with King in most of the sketches. She was best playing a tough woman clerk handling an unemployment insurance queue. David Frye came up with a couple of impressions of Richard Nixon. Each time Barbara Walters, looking elegant and very uncomfortable, played straight woman for his gags. There was also a production number using the justices of the Supreme Court as a chorus line.

Meanwhile, the Public Broadcasting Stations showed the first of a new series of public affairs programs based on an intriguing idea.

Mao Stars in China Movies Shown Aboard

By JOHN VINOCUR

Associated Press Writer

PARIS (AP) — Mao is the sun, Mao is the moon, and Mao is the man in Red China who does the job that Leo the Lion used to do for MGM.

Beaming a godhead smile framed by a background of papal purple, the face of Mao Tse-tung lights up the screen so compellingly at the start of "The Construction of the Nan-king Bridge on the Yangtze River" that the rest of the picture is an anticlimax.

"The Bridge" is one of three movies from Communist China that are now playing in Paris. "The Bridge" and one called "The Tunnel War" have never been shown in the West before, according to the Chinese Embassy. The third film, of the ballet "The Red Women's Detachment," was offered briefly at the 1971 Venice Film Festival.

The three are bible movies of a kind never dreamed of by Cecil B. De Mille, patriotic films beyond the imagination of John Wayne and educational pictures of greater simplicity than those that show kindergartners how to brush down their teeth.

The message is there from the moment the round face with the blue cap lasers its first grin: Mao knows, and if the people apply the lessons from his Little Red Book—what the subtitles call "Maotsetung thought"—they will vanquish all enemies, from warring invaders to engineering problems that confuse such revisionists as the cloddish Russians.

To judge the films by any sophisticated Western standard would be a mistake. They are meant to educate peasants and workers, to instill revolutionary values and to extol Mao.

"The Tunnel War" is an account of a village that resisted the Japanese occupation by digging a series of interlocking tunnels under its fields and houses. The theme—that people defending their own land can beat a bigger, better equipped enemy—is reasonable, and there is good action. There is also a volume of Mao's thoughts kept wrapped up like a holy relic in the hero's handkerchief, and some less than snappy theme music called "People's War is Invincible."

"The Construction of the Nanking Bridge on the Yangtze River" is more straight documentary and more heavily Maoist. He can show you which cables to lay.

The ballet won't worry the Bolshoi. It tells the story of a battle on Hainan island during the civil war. The dancing is of the 1930s Hollywood school of choreography, for Chinese WACs in floppy Bermuda shorts. They hustle around on a set that could have been borrowed from an American high school production of "South Pacific."

Mao's lesson appears on a training camp blackboard in Chinese and would be lost on most imperialist audiences. But there's no missing the "love China or leave it" flag waving and the near canonization of a Maoist warrior in a radiant red spotlight.

Paris critics have been gentle with the Maoies. Jean de Baroncelli of Le Monde acknowledged that their artistic or cinematographic value was slim but said they were interesting as windows on today's China. He said they were "meteorites fallen from another sky, whose nature and contents are more interesting than their form."

The only newspaper to ridicule the films was L'Humanite, the official organ of the pro-Soviet French Communist party. It assailed the cult of personality around Mao and sniffed about "an extremely chauvinis-

MOM FROWNS ON 'SUPER-STAR'

Dear Sue:
I saved up my money to buy my favorite album, "Jesus Christ Superstar." The music is terrific.

My mother blew her stack. She said if I ever brought that trash into the house she'd break it over my head. I asked, "Is it because we're Jewish?" and she said, "Definitely not!" but she won't discuss it any further.

She never restricted my music before, though she often makes fun of it, and sometimes shouts, "Turn that garbage off," when I'm listening to my favorite teenager radio station—though she hears the very same "garbage" on HER favorite station.

How can I convince her Superstar is great stuff? —S.Z.
Dear S.:

Maybe your mother thinks (but won't admit) that "Superstar" would influence you away from your religion. She's probably heard about all those "subversive" songs on drugs, sex, etc. and how they "corrupt" kids, so she suspects anything with a "message."

Please tell her for me that I've yet to see anyone change his or her thinking just because of a few lyrics.

Or maybe she's heard that "Jesus Christ Superstar" is "sacrilegious." Honest, it isn't. I've not only seen the rock opera but have the album, and while there are funny parts all through the play, the character of Jesus is the strong one and the others are the jokers. It's a beautiful show—but I'm sure that when the producers were putting it together, they were a little scared because they knew many people—like your mother—would be putting it down without giving it a real chance.

The music sorta seeps inside you and you find yourself singing it later and feeling good. Perhaps your mother would too, if she'd give it a try. —SUE

Dear Helen:

Your daughter Kathy rightly said the history of "The Desiderata" is in dispute. It has been written often that the beautiful piece of blank verse was found inscribed on the wall of Old St. Paul's Church, Baltimore, dated 1692.

A fellow teacher became interested and spent several hours in the St. Paul Public Library researching the correct author. She found that "Desiderata" is attributed to poet Max Ehrmann, who died in 1945. Composed about 45 years ago, it was originally entitled "A Prayer" and was included in his works published by Bruce Humphries Publishers.

I enjoy your Generation Rap. —A RETIRED TEACHER

Dear Teacher:

Thanks for your information and your support!

Dissension Clouds Mark Opening of the Olympics

By GEOFFREY MILLER
Associated Press Sports Writer
SAPPORO, Japan (AP) — Clouds of dissension hanging over the 11th Winter Olympic Games all but dispersed Thursday as the sun shone down on Emperor Hirohito of Japan and a throng of 50,000 at Makomanai Skating Stadium for the glittering opening ceremonies.

The solemn ritual, patterns of bright colors, sunshine on the snow and pageantry obliterated for one brief hour the bitterness over the expulsion of Austrian ski star Karl Schranz.

Schranz, kicked out of the games because he made money from advertising, did not even attend the ceremony.

The Austrian team, which at one time had threatened a mass walk-out in protest, was outfitted smartly in red and white uniforms and marched into the arena and saluted the emperor with as much dignity as any of the other 34 national squads.

The Olympic hymn was sung, the flag of the five rings was hoisted and the sacred Olympic flame was ignited in its cauldron atop the stadium, all according to tradition.

Now all is ready for the start of the games—ice hockey eliminations Thursday and the first

The opening ceremony, in this outdoor stadium set amid the lovely snow-clad mountain landscape of Hokkaido, was a color television producer's dream.

It began with the teams marching past the royal box in strikingly contrasted uniforms, and ended with 18,000 balloons being released and colored smoke bombs leaving rainbow patterns in the sky.

The choice of team uniforms ranged far and wide. The Finns looked like black-and-white penguins, the Russians like furry brown bears, the Swiss like delectable red-and-white candy canes and the Spaniards like matadors in black-and-red capes and corbodes hats.

The United States men's squad, in black leather coats that cost $160 each, made a big impression. But the American girls, in boot-length red capes, had a strange look of volunteer nurses.

By tradition the Greeks, heirs of the athletes who competed in the first games more than 2,000 years ago, led the parade. The Japanese, as host nation, marched last, in all-white outfits that blended with the snow.

Izumi Tsujimura, a Japanese girl, skated gracefully into the arena with the Olympic torch, which started out Dec. 28 on its traditional journey from Athens. Hideki Takada, a Japanese runner, bore it up the carpeted staircase and ignited the Olympic flame.

Two personalities in the ceremony caught the imagination of the crowd.

One was Avery Brundage, 84-year-old president of the International Olympic Committee whose dedicated campaign against professionalism led to the ban on Schranz.

The jaunty old president, a black fur hat on his head, strode into the center of the arena and spoke in English and Japanese, calling on the emperor to open the games.

The other outstanding figure was Ingrid Lafforgue, the brilliant French ski jumper who was kept out of the games by a broken ankle. She limped proudly into the stadium bearing the commemorative Olympic flag which had been in the custody of Grenoble, France, since the last Winter Games were staged there in 1968.

Miss Lafforgue, chosen to represent the mayor of Grenoble, handed the flag over to the mayor of Sapporo.

The ceremony took place in bitter 17-degree weather. Foreign visitors bundled themselves against the cold and looked with amazement at the Japanese women in kimonos who stepped daintily through the snow in sandals to the stadium entrances.

There were a few tiny hits. The Olympic flag got wrapped around the staff and never billowed out properly until the teams were leaving the stadium.

Officials had to struggle with a red carpet which threatened to blow away.

And when 800 Japanese youngsters skated in with balloons at the end, some of them slipped and fell over and their balloons wafted away prematurely.

The Japanese lived up to their reputation for tidiness. When the crowd dispersed, scarcely an item of litter was left in the stadium. But as the milling crowds pushed and elbowed their way from the stadium the Japanese traditions of politeness got just the slightest bit tarnished.

NCAA to Challenge 1.6 Rule by Court

By RICHARD H. SMITH
Associated Press Writer

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Further federal court hearings appear likely here on the National Collegiate Athletic Association's controversial 1.6 rule.

Officials of the NCAA said Wednesday in Kansas City and Knoxville, Tenn. they expected to challenge a judge's finding that application of the 1.6 rule had violated the constitutional rights of two athletes at the University of California at Berkeley.

The NCAA officials also said they believed the judge's ruling, even if it stood, applied only to the California case and did not invalidate the entire rule.

U.S. District Court Judge Albert C. Wollenberg said he would not comment on or interpret his ruling of Tuesday in a suit brought against the NCAA last November by Cal football

Hope to Host County Tournney Play 7A District Girls Meet

Plans are being made for the 7A District Senior Girls Tournament to be held in Jones Field House in Hope February 14-19, according to Coach Willie Tate, Tournament Director.

Eleven teams will contend for the right to represent the 7A District at the state tournament.

A meeting was scheduled for this week to draw up the tournament bracket which will be announced next week.

In the Hempstead County Tournament at Ebleins last night Saratoga Senior Boys defeated Spring Hill by a 77 to 66 score; Ebleins Junior Boys downed Spring Hill 49 to 35, and the Ebleins Junior Girls romped over Lincoln 52 to 14.

Games Thursday night pair Saratoga and Spring Hill Junior girls at 6:30; Spring Hill and Lincoln Senior Girls at 7:30, and the Ebleins and Lincoln Senior Boys at 8:45.

Ebleins Senior Boys have a 23-3 record with the only losses to Nashville by one point, to computer went for Houston running back Robert Newhouse, whose 1,757 yards in 1971 made him major college football's second highest single-season ground-gainer; John Babinecz of Villanova, a 220-pound linebacker with speed, and flashy wide receiver Charlie "Earl the Pearl" McKee of Arizona.

Round 3 found Dallas choosing Michigan linebacker Mike Keller and Utah kicker Marv Bateman, who led the nation with a 48.1-yard punting average. In Round 4, the Cowboys tapped Northern Michigan linebacker Tim Kearney, San Diego State wide receiver Robert West and Penn State linebacker Charlie Zapiec.

The Cowboys went into the draft looking for depth at running back and linebacker and when they filled both holes relatively early, a representative of one club shook his head in disbelief.

On later rounds, after taking a flyer at semipro defensive back Charles "Doc" Bolden, the Cowboys came up with such prospects as North Carolina A&T linebacker Ralph Coleman, Oklahoma running back Roy Bell, Florida State defensive end Richard Amman and North Carolina A&T defensive end Lonnie Leonard and the disbelieving headshaker muttered, "It's disgusting!"

The Colts' first pick was 256-pound tackle Tom Drougas of Oregon and in the second round they added Jack Mildren, Oklahoma's Wishbone quarterback who will get a shot at defensive back; Michigan wingback Glenn Doughty and Penn State running back Lydell Mitchell.

Baltimore was looking for young talent at wide receiver and quarterback and unearthed three of the former and two of the latter, not counting Mildren.

The wide receivers were Doughty, Michigan State's Eric Allen, who holds the one-game major college rushing record of 350 yards, and Herb Washington, Allen's teammate. The quarterbacks were Van Brownson, who backed up Jerry Tagge for the national champion Nebraska Cornhuskers, and Little All-American Gary Wichard.

On the first two rounds, Green Bay came up with San Diego State cornerback Willie Buchanan, Nebraska quarterback Tagge and Chester Marcol, a record-setting kicker—62-yard field goal—from tiny Hillsdale College.

Cincinnati picked California defensive tackle Sherman White and Louisiana State defensive back Tommy Casanova; Chicago selected Southern Illinois offensive tackle Lionel Antoine and Iowa defensive back Craig Clemmons; Denver chose Houston tight end Riley Odums and St. Louis went for running back-wide receiver Bobby Moore of Oregon and Arizona linebacker Mark Arneson.

Wednesday's selections included the ageless Washington Redskins' taking 27-year-old running back Moses Denson, by way of Maryland State and the Montreal Alouettes of the Canadian League.

The Redskins, who traded most of their early draft choices as George Allen built his Over-the-Hill Gang, were shut out during Tuesday's first seven rounds. Their eight-round pick of Denson brought mock cheers from the other teams.

Michigan had the most players drafted—10—and the Wolverines' conference, the Big Ten, also led with 43. Notre Dame and Wisconsin produced eight draftees apiece while 32 came from the Southeastern Conference, 31 from the Big Eight and 30 from the Pacific-8.

Other first-round picks included Stanford defensive end Greg Sampson by Houston, Saratoga and Mineral Springs. Ebleins will host the District Senior Boys Tournament February 14-19 with some 22 schools entered.

Jr. Olympic Cage Play

Here are the results of games played on Tuesday, February 1, in the Boys Junior Division at Guernsey. In the first game Moore Brothers defeated Herburn Burns by the score of 34 to 31. Pugh was the leading scorer for the winners with 12 points, while Palmer sank 15 points for the losers. In the second game Hope Builders Supply topped Western Auto by the score of 23 to 16. Sinyard scored 8 for Hope Builders and LaGrone led Western Auto with 6 points. In the third game Crescent Drug edged Sherwin-Williams 34 to 19. Nelson led the victors with 13 points, while Lockhart had 7 for the losers. In game number four Tate Motor Co. outscored J. A. West Co. 47 to 32, with Haney making 24 for Tate Motor Co., while Vickers sank 12 for West's.

Something Blue UA Group Meets Here for Chaparrals

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Something old and something new added up to something blue for the Dallas Chaparrals Wednesday night.

Carolina veteran Joe Caldwell was the something old while Cougar center Jim McDaniels, a rookie, provided the something new. Each scored 16 points in the second half to spark Carolina to a 110-101 American Basketball Association victory over Dallas—for the Chaps, something blue.

In the only other ABA game of the night, Denver upset Utah 122-116.

McDaniels, the 7-foot rookie from Western Kentucky, poured in 12 points in the third quarter as Carolina broke from a 49-49 halftime deadlock to a 78-73 lead after three periods.

Then Caldwell, a 30-year-old veteran in his eighth pro season, took command. The 6-5 former Arizona State star scored 14 points in the fourth quarter to keep the Chaparrals at bay.

McDaniels led all scorers with 24 points while Caldwell netted 22, Larry Miller added 21 and Gene Littles had 19. For Dallas, Donnie Freeman tallied 23 and Rich Jones 21.

Ralph Simpson scored 23 points and Larry Brown had 20 to place Denver, in last place in the ABA West, past Utah, the West Division front-runner.

Four Denver reserves scored in double figures to aid Denver. Byron Beck had 20, Al Smith 13, Frank Card and Chuck Williams 10 apiece. Utah's Zelmo Beaty was high for the game with 33 points and teammate Willie Wise added 26.

Judge John L. Wilson, a member of the University of Arkansas Board of Trustees, presided at the U of A educational meeting held at the Town and Country Restaurant last Friday. It was one of a series of such meetings being held throughout the state in which officials of the University are reporting to the people on programs and needs of the institution.

He introduced guest speakers Dr. Charles W. Oxford, U of A administrative vice president, and C.A. Vines, U of A Cooperative Extension Service Director, to approximately fifty Hempstead County residents.

Judge Wilson attended the University of Arkansas from 1945 through 1948. He has served as a member of the U of A board of trustees since March 1963.

C.A. VINES

Shown above is C.A. Vines, Director of the University of Arkansas Cooperative Extension Service, as he spoke to local citizens about the University's educational program. He told the group that enrollment of students in all branches of the University during the fall semester was more than 20,000. Mr. Vines also discussed the different types of educational instruction offered, the research program and the service program that reaches into each county of the state. In so doing he gave locations of various campuses, experimental stations and pointed out that the Cooperative Extension Service has an office in each county in Arkansas.

The speaker discussed the progress of the recent mergers of other institutions with the University, adding that "the University does not seek any mergers."

Archibald averaged 16 points a game last season, but said: "I was forcing a lot of shots last year. I think I got my confidence this year and think I know which shots to take and from where."

Archibald took 35 floor shots against the Knicks and hit 17. He also connected on 15 of 16 free throw attempts.

Elsewhere in the NBA, Boston walloped Chicago 124-100, Detroit whipped Cleveland 133-108, Philadelphia trimmed Buffalo 119-104, Houston routed Seattle 111-88, and Milwaukee edged Phoenix 108-103.

Archibald, in surpassing his previous pro high of 47, hit 10 straight Cincinnati after New York had tied the score 94-94 with four minutes remaining. The diminutive backcourt star connected for three consecutive field goals and four foul shots, putting the Royals ahead for good 106-98.

Bill Bradley was high for the Knicks with 27 points.

The loss dropped New York six games behind first-place Boston in the Atlantic Division. Boston, with John Havlicek pumping in 32 points and Dave Cowens grabbing 21 rebounds, stretched its winning streak to five games, beating Chicago, despite 36 points by the Bulls' Bob Love.

Dave Bing hit nine straight field goals and finished with 33 points as Detroit snapped a six-game losing string with its triumph over Cleveland, loser of 15 of its last 17 games.

Philadelphia burst to a 37-14 first-period lead over the Braves and went on to whip the Braves as Fred Carter led the way with 23 points.

Houston got balanced scoring—23 points from Greg Smith and 22 each from Elvin Hayes and Rudy Tomjanovich—in crushing Seattle with a 66-point second-half.

DR. CHARLES OXFORD

The University of Arkansas must obtain adequate financial support if it is to maintain and improve its level of service to the people of Arkansas, Dr. Charles Oxford, U of A administrative vice president, told a group of Hempstead County residents.

He stated that "no appropriations for basic instructional equipment have been available for several years," and added that "necessary repairs in buildings and utility systems have been delayed because of a lack of funds." Dr. Oxford said that in the area of the basic operating budgets for each of the campuses the University "must look to the state for a large portion of the necessary funds." He added that "expenditure for higher education by the state is really not an expenditure at all, but an investment."

Dr. Oxford urged the audience to "let your representatives know that you believe the University, and all of the state's higher education institutions, are important to you, and that you believe investment in them is a sound investment."

Oaklawn Start of Derby Route

By HARRY KING

Associated Press Writer
HOT SPRINGS, Ark. (AP) — The stakes book distributed to thoroughbred owners by Oaklawn Park outlines a logical path to the Kentucky Derby.

The route begins at Oaklawn Park, heads northeast to Keeneland and then on to Churchill Downs for the May 6 derby.

The point is that Oaklawn, with its $100,000 Arkansas Derby April 2, is a natural jumping off point for derby hopefuls. Last year the derby purse was $50,000.

"We're getting calls and wires from all over for nominations for our derby," says Allan W. "Doc" Lavin, racing secretary at Oaklawn. "We think everything's going to shape up wonderfully. This is the best possibility so far that we will have a Kentucky Derby winner."

"We've had several horses who ran here and then went up there and performed well, but we've never had a winner," he said. "Maybe 1972 will be our year."

Lavin says the response to Friday's opening day feature, the $10,000 Dixieland Handicap, is indicative of the interest in the derby.

The feature, a 5 1/2 furlong event, is for 3-year-olds.

"In the past it's been like pulling eye teeth to get seven or eight in this race," Lavin says. "This year we've got 16 nominations."

Lavin says Sensitive Music may be the best conditioned 3-year-old at Oaklawn, but that the horse was not entered for the Dixieland.

"The last time he ran was in Florida 10 days ago and he ran second in a $50,000 race," Lavin says. "He's been coughing a little so he wasn't entered."

Lavin, who is also racing secretary at Churchill Downs, says Our Trade Winds may be the best bred colt on the grounds, but that 5 1/2 furlongs may not be long enough for the animal.

"Our Trade Winds is out of the French champion, Herbarger, and a wonderful mare named Be Ambitious who has already produced three stakes winners," Lavin said. "Our Trade Winds won two of five starts last year. The last time he ran at Chicago, he was last at the head of the stretch and won going away."

Last year, the Arkansas Derby was like a rodeo with 19 horses leaving the post. Twenty horses were to start but Northfields, winner of the Louisiana Derby, drew the No. 20 post and was scratched. He later campaigned successfully on the East Coast and was sold recently for $500,000.

The fee to run in the Arkansas Derby has been raised in an attempt to "weed out" some of the lesser qualified horses.

In 1971, it cost $150 to pass the entry box and an additional $350 to start. This year, an owner will have to pay $750 to pass the entry box and another $750 to start.

"They'll think a little before they put up $1,500," Lavin said.

Says Division Not Needed

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The chairman of the state Racing Commission said Monday he sees no need to divide it into two separate commissions.

J. W. Benfield of England, the chairman, made the statement after State Sen. Q. Byrum Hurst of Hot Springs said he hoped a special session of the legislature would adopt such a measure.

Hurst had said that horse racing and dog racing in the state had grown "to the extent that we must separate them."

"I think one commission could function to take care of both greyhound and Thoroughbred racing," Benfield said. "I think two commissions could do equally as good a job."

Benfield said he would "actively oppose" such legislation.

The two-commission proposal was not included in Gov. Dale Bumpers' call, but Hurst said he hoped to include it.

One Central Stock Market Proposed

WASHINGTON AP — The Securities and Exchange Commission has proposed a single central stock market system whose membership could include large institutional investors.

The proposal, which would be implemented by the stock exchanges and over-the-counter brokerage firms, drew quick criticism from two congressional committee chairmen Wednesday. Both said the industry should not be allowed to recommend its own rules and structure.

Sen. Harrison A. Williams, D-N.J., chairman of a Senate securities subcommittee that has been studying the industry, said the self-regulatory system had proved deficient over the past few years.

"I am rather surprised that the commission now places such great reliance on industry groups to come up with constructive and forward-looking solutions to difficult and controversial problems," he said.

Rep. John E. Moss, D-Calif., head of the House commerce and finance subcommittee, agreed. "Policy which has such a broad and profound significance should not be determined by an agency on the advice of 'working committees' from the industry that is being regulated by that agency."

The plan, announced Wednesday, also would establish competitive commission rates on stock orders of $300,000 or more. The present level at which brokerage commission rates are determined competitively is $500,000.

Carrier Tax Ruling May Cost the State

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — An official of the state Public Service Commission says he does not think a state Transportation Commission ruling which held that Roadway Express, Inc., a trucking company, is not subject to the Arkansas ad valorem tax assessment for 1971 is legal.

The ruling, made Dec. 28, may have opened the door to a loss of millions of dollars in state revenue.

Earl Berry, director of the Tax Division of the Public Service Commission Division of Utilities and Transportation, says, however, he does not think the ruling conforms with the law.

But, if the ruling is valid, he fears that a minimum of 700 carriers and perhaps as many as 950 might also be in situations essentially like that of Roadway.

The ruling in Roadway's case

Talks School Issues

BILL TOLLESON

Bill Tolleson, President of the local School Board, appeared as the guest speaker at Tuesday's Kiwanis Club meeting. Kiwanian Clyde Davis having arranged the program.

Mr. Tolleson gave some comparative figures on today's Hope School System and the days during which he was a student in Hope High School some 30 years ago.

There were 1,600 pupils in the Hope School District, and now there are nearly 3,000. There were 62 teachers in the entire school system where today there are 125 in teaching positions. The total Budget was $75,000 against today's approximately $1,000,000 Budget. The average salary for teachers was $400 for a school year compared to an average of about $6,000 today. The assessed valuation was $2,000,000 with an 18 mill tax. Today's assessed valuation is about $12,000,000 and we have a 40 mill tax.

However, with this significant increase in assessments and millage other costs have spiraled and our local school system finds itself facing a most serious financial problem.

Mr. Tolleson said, "This is not my problem or that of the school board. It's the problem of every citizen living in the Hope School District. What kind of education do you want for our young people? The schools cannot spend more than they receive. There's no deficit financing in school affairs."

Average millage in the top 30 school districts in Arkansas is 49 mills while ours is fixed at 40. The average pay scale is $7,000 while ours is $6,300.

State aid is the same in Hope as elsewhere in the State on a per pupil basis. Our lack of funds is a local situation. About 37 per cent of School Funds come from local sources.

There are a total of 129 school districts in Arkansas. In per pupil expenditures Magnet Cove leads the list with $1,000. Little Rock spends $466 per pupil. Where does Hope stand? Of the 129 districts Hope is 104 from the top with an annual expenditure of $187 per pupil from local sources. If we are willing to be that near the bottom of the list we won't do anything about it, but if we want to be among the better schools, we will support our school system in its plans for additional revenues.

Calf Scours Vaccine

LINCOLN, Neb. (AP) — A University of Nebraska research team said Wednesday it has discovered a calf scours vaccine which would cut into the multi-million dollar losses the disease inflicts every year on farmers and ranchers.

Scours or diarrhea, the number one killer of calves under three weeks old, costs the U.S. beef and dairy cattle industries between $150 million and $250 million annually.

The team identified two viruses in the course of testing and said its vaccine completely controls one of them. In some test herds, the disease's total effect was cut up to 95 per cent.

Field tests in Nebraska involved 9,583 calves in 35 separate herds. Ranchers administered the vaccine, kept records and collected specimen samples for the team to analyze. Several of the herds reporting a 100 per cent incidence of the disease at the time of the test subsequently reported only 5 per cent incidence rates and zero death losses, the team reported.

Dr. M.J. Twiehaus, a member of the team, said work is under way now to find a vaccine for the second virus. The first vaccine will be turned over to federal agencies for testing.

HOPE (ARK.) STAR. Printed by Offset Mars Dust May Give Clue to Pollution

WASHINGTON AP — The dust storm that blanketed Mars for three months this winter may offer clues for scientists studying pollution of the earth's atmosphere, say leaders of the Mariner 9 project.

Data relayed from cameras and scientific instruments aboard the spacecraft orbiting Mars showed that dust was spreading continuously across the planet at the rate of 20 to 25 miles an hour, and that local winds reached velocities up to 300 miles an hour.

Dr. Arvydas Kliore, of the Jet Propulsion Laboratory, Pasadena, Calif., told reporters at a National Aeronautics and Space Administration briefing here Tuesday that study of dust distribution on Mars could provide information on particulate pollution on earth.

"Here on earth we are unable to observe the effects of global pollution," Kliore said. "We can do this on Mars, and can relate the effect of temperature on the atmosphere and on the surface."

Bradford Smith of New Mexico State University said the Martian dust storm started late in September, became very large in October, began clearing slowly until mid-December, and then accelerated the clearing process, with the most rapid changes occurring around Jan. 1.

Smith said investigators found Mars to be much dustier than they expected.

The particles, originally were thought to be quite small, but now we know them to be about 10 microns—about the size of what grates in your teeth in a dust storm.

Smith said the dust storms of Mars may be seasonal but apparently do not occur every year.

Harold Masursky of the U.S. Geological Survey, leader of the Mariner television experiments team, said it was fortunate that Mariner 9 arrived in Martian orbit Nov. 13 during the most intense phase of the storm, because it may be 15 years before such a large storm occurs again.

The scientists also reported that:

- Mars is a sphere flattened at the poles.
- Temperatures at some points are so cold—about 190 degrees below zero—that carbon dioxide condenses to the solid state of dry ice.
- The planet is losing the equivalent of 100,000 gallons of water from its atmosphere daily.

Bumpers Offers Help

LITTLE ROCK AP — Gov. Dale Bumpers said Monday he would send a task force to Marianna to investigate apparent racial difficulty there, but he declined to say to whom he sent the offer.

The governor said at a news conference Wednesday that he wanted to keep some of the details of his handling of the offer secret because he feared that general knowledge of the details might "prejudice" the effort.

Bumpers said upon request he would appoint a committee of six persons, three blacks and three whites, to negotiate as long and as often as there is a promise of meaningful results.

Bumpers also refused to say how many persons he had contacted about the offer. But he said he would appoint the committee if he received a favorable response from "both sides."

He said no response would be taken as an unfavorable response.

Bumpers said he decided to make the offer after receiving many letters, calls and telegrams from Marianna citizens, both black and white.

The governor said those communications were all "pleading for help—all dramatically describing the fear, suspicions and tensions which grip the

Some express agony, grief and frustration," he said. "Some tell of how everyone is armed, how some whites fear not only blacks but other whites, and some say blacks are fearful of both blacks and whites."

The latest series of incidents in Marianna was prompted by a walkout of about 120 black pupils at Lee County High School Jan. 1 after their demand for an official observance of the birthday of Dr. Martin Luther King was denied.

Since then about 3,000 black pupils have been boycotting the schools.

Marianna school Supt. H.C. Dial said Wednesday 1,692 pupils were in class out of a total enrollment of 4,950. He said attendance has been increasing at the rate of 90 pupils per day.

In his news conference, the governor said it was "absolutely clear" that a vast majority of both blacks and whites prefer a settlement, and he added: "Every thinking man and woman in Marianna knows that a continuation of the present strife and controversy can only lead to more violence as well as economic and social chaos. There will be no winners."

Bumpers declined to say whether a state Police report on the situation confirmed or denied reports he has received that many Marianna residents are armed.

May Have Found Way to Use Solar Energy

By BILL STOCKTON
AP Science Writer
SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Two Arizona scientists say they believe they have solved a problem whose answer has long eluded man, an efficient way of tapping the boundless cost-free energy of the sun.

With a $25,000 grant from interested utility companies, Dr. Aden B. Meinel of the University of Arizona and his wife Marjorie are building a device which will focus and trap sunlight.

The sunlight would be converted into heat which would be used to run conventional electrical generating stations.

Such stations now get their heat from nuclear fission of fossil fuels such as coal. The heat converts water to steam, which turns turbines connected to generators.

"This isn't a new electricity generating system. It's a new fuel source for generators that already exist," Mrs. Meinel told newsmen Wednesday after she and her husband outlined details of their new solar energy converter for American Physical Society members.

The first device, which the Meineis call a "credibility model," is expected to be ready in about three months. It is about the size of a large table.

The heart of the Meineis' converter is a stainless steel pipe on which microscopically thin films of molybdenum, cesium and magnesium compounds are deposited. They allow sunlight to pass through, but prevent much of the energy it contains from radiating back out.

Special lenses concentrate the sunlight before it strikes the pipe, generating temperatures to 1,000 degrees. A gas or liquid flowing through the pipe carries off the heat for use at the power plant.

The failure of earlier converters to achieve such high temperatures has delayed past plans to convert sunlight into electricity, scientists said.

The Meineis have a timetable that calls for construction of a demonstration plant within five years. The smallest such plant might cost $100 million and generate 25 million watts of power.

Once the solar converters were built, there would be no cost for the heat they generated, the scientists said. There also would be no pollution, depletion of natural resources or danger of radiation, as exists with many present power plants. Each plant would cover an area about the size of a football field.

Meinel said the cost of a demonstration plant might be 10 times as great as that of a conventional generating station producing as much power, but he predicted the cost would become competitive if enough units were built.

Sickle Killer Sentenced to Life

NEVADA CITY, Calif. (AP) — Clarence Otis Smith, convicted of being the laughing, growling "sickle killer" of two campers, has been sentenced to life in prison.

Smith, 44, smiled slightly when the jury of seven women and five men gave its verdict late Wednesday after more than eight hours of deliberation.

Nevada County Superior Court Judge Harold Walters said he would set a penalty later on a charge of second degree murder, a charge of attempted murder and one of assault against the former gang member who testified "devils" lived in his house.

Witnesses during the trial said Donna Fitzhugh, 28, of Ontario, Calif., and John Simmons, 29, of Weimar, Calif., were slashed to death July 12 at the Dog Bar camp three miles from Smith's home by a man who was laughing and growling while swinging a weapon with a curved blade.

Injured in the attack were Kenneth Garbe, 21, of Applegate, Calif., the only witness to identify Smith as his attacker, and Martha Parker, 25, of Pomona, Calif.

Following Smith's conviction, jurors ruled last Friday that he was sane. The lanky defendant had pleaded innocent and innocent by reason of insanity to the charges.

Smith vanished from his home after the victims were found, and was arrested Aug. 6 in Mexico. He was brought to Brownsville, Tex., and then returned to Nevada City, where he had been indicted on the charges.

Throughout the trial, Smith remained calm and at times appeared to show little interest in proceedings. When found guilty last week, he sat quietly reading a copy of "Road and Track" magazine until jurors were excused.

He told news photographers "Hope you guys get a good picture," as he was led from the courtroom.

Consumer Has Tendency to Ignore, Forget Threatens to Halt Merger

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — Although the overall wisdom of the ordinary consumer and investor can be easily demonstrated, there are two failings that remain curiously persistent: A tendency to ignore, a tendency to forget.

It is difficult, for example, to measure the impact of the health warnings on cigarette packages—and now on advertising too—but you could develop argument for saying that it is nil.

In the middle 1960s consumption did fall, following release of the U.S. Surgeon General's report on smoking and health. But since then the industry has enjoyed a rather steady 3 per cent gain per year.

Cigarette consumption last year was estimated to be 536.3 billion units, even though every package contains the advisory: "Warning: The Surgeon General Has Determined That Cigarette Smoking Is Dangerous to Your Health."

Have smokers become unaware of the warning? Do they doubt the accuracy of the Surgeon General's assessment? Do they simply ignore the warning because it interferes with their enjoyment?

$135,569 for UNICEF Work

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Entertainer Danny Kaye has been presented a check for $135,569 to be used for UNICEF rehabilitation work in an area of Peru hit by a major earthquake last May.

Representatives of six American corporations gave Kaye the check Tuesday. The check was payment for six million product wrappers and labels collected by volunteers for the U.N. Children's Fund.

Money Goes to Irish Families

CHICAGO (AP) — Mayor Richard J. Daley has sent $25,000 to be used for the families of dead or wounded in Northern Ireland.

San Diego Ready for Convention

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — Demonstrators who come to the Republican National Convention in August will find that the city has put on a friendly front—and 7,000 police officers to keep the peace.

After long talks, Republican and city officials decided on a plan that would permit picketing but overwhelm any disturbance in the making.

"We will be ready," says Mayor Pete Wilson. "We will be a gracious host, but we will be ready for trouble."

With 21 law enforcement agencies involved, San Diego's 1,000-man police force will be supplemented with 6,000 officers from nearby communities, as well as sheriff's deputies and highway patrolmen. All are receiving special training.

Roving teams formed by 400 volunteer lawyers will deal with potential mass arrests, with the aim of easing pressure on jails and courts and assuring the constitutional rights of anyone taken into custody.

Police Inspector James Conole, in charge of the law enforcement task force, said police will cooperate with civil rights groups and try to assure that all rights are protected.

He said picketing will be allowed outside the Sports Arena while the convention's business sessions are being held inside.

"Mass, arbitrary arrests are not our objective at all," Conole said Tuesday. "We don't want to throw a lot of bodies in jail."

Yippie leader Jerry Rubin has called for "tens of thousands" of anti-Nixon administration protesters to converge on San Diego for the Aug. 21-23 convention.

With memories of the mass arrests in Chicago at the time of the 1968 Democratic convention still fresh, San Diego asked for more than twice the $495,494 in federal funds authorized for Miami Beach in law enforcement aid while serving as host to the Democrats this year.

The guidelines could possibly mean some personnel changes, Walker said.

He even envisioned that Arkansas Coach Frank Broyles could be sent to the Pine Bluff school and that AM&N coach Vanette Johnson could wind up at Fayetteville.

Walker carried his speculation a step further.

He said that Dr. David Mullins, who now heads the University of Arkansas, could be made the chancellor of AM&N and that AM&N's president, Dr. Lawrence A. Davis, could become UA president.

Walker explained that HEW guidelines says that positions at the schools must be based on tenure, professional experience and other factors, not simply on the basis of race.

The bid was rejected.

John Lockwood, assistant city manager in charge of convention arrangements, said $537,000 will now be sought from the U.S. Department of Justice, with another $300,000 or more in costs of law enforcement to be borne by the city.

The planning has been "Chicago-inspired," said Robert G. Steiner, president of the San Diego County Bar Association.

"The emphasis is on preventive work. We pray that the attorneys will be dramatically inactive. We hope legal ounces of prevention will forestall pounds of unnecessary crime," he said.

Asks $35,000 From State

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Jack R. Bell Sr., 63, asked the state Claims Commission for $35,000 Wednesday because of injuries he said he suffered while an inmate at Tucker Intermediate Reformatory.

Bell, who was supervisor of trustees at Tucker, said he was attacked without provocation June 30, 1968, by two other inmates, who beat him with a log chain.

He said he suffered loss of vision in one eye and most of the vision in the other. He also said the state failed to provide him with medical treatment in time to save his sight.

In another case, Butler Robinson, a former inmate at Cummins Prison Farm, asked $7,500 for injuries to a foot. He said he was injured March 1, 1967, and was in the prison infirmary for 12 days before he was examined by a physician or a bandage on his foot was changed.

Robinson alleged he contracted gangrene that necessitated amputation of a toe and several bones in his left foot.

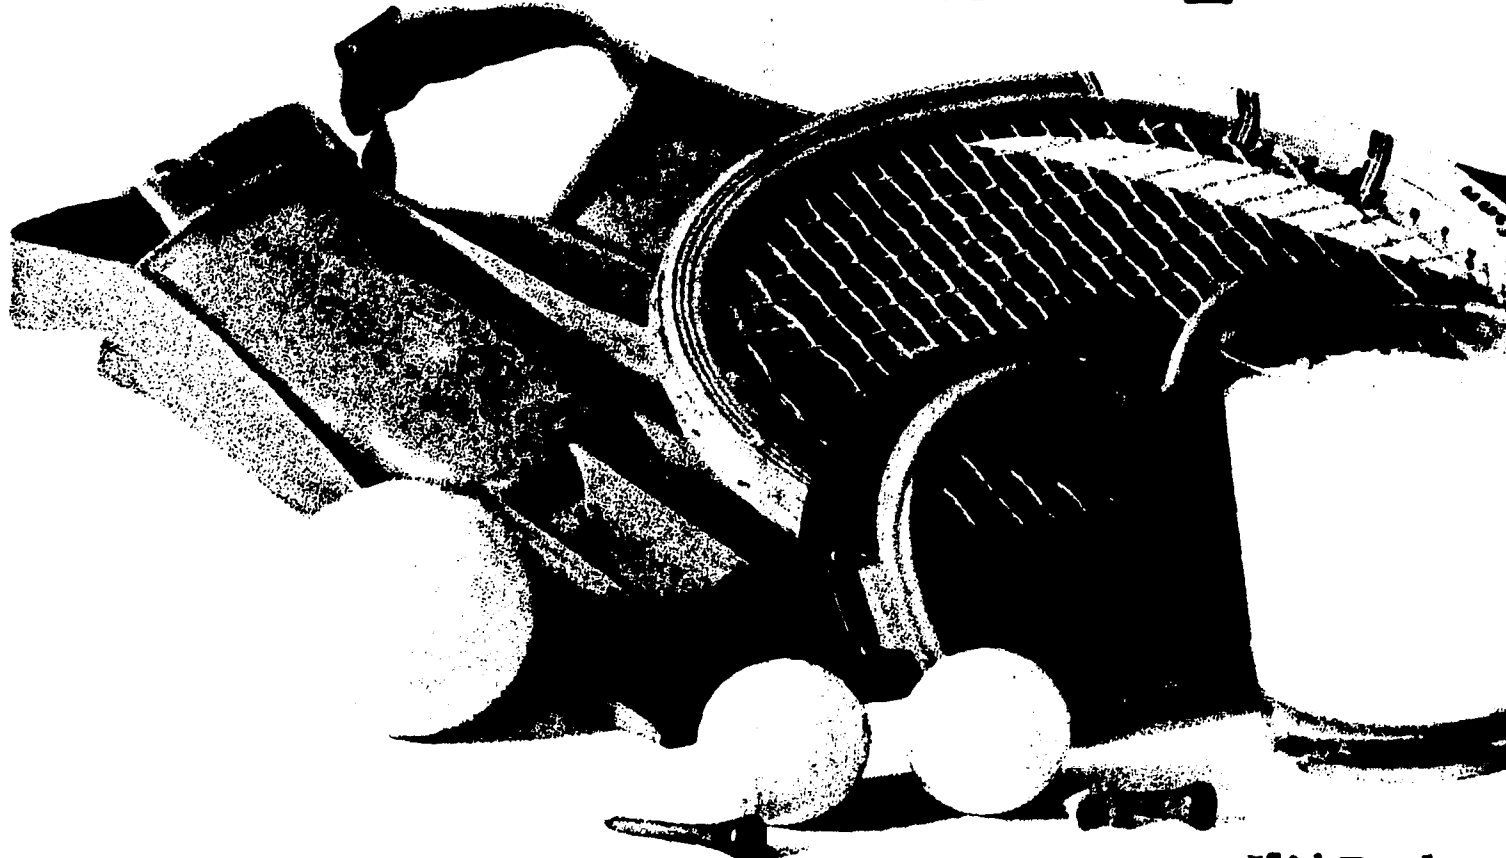

Ron Hunt of the Montreal Expos set a major league record last season when he was hit 50 times by pitched balls.
